

Cornerstone Chronicles

What would you choose

There are many different kinds of

Valentine's Day candy. Some examples would be chocolate, M&M's, and gummies. What do you prefer?

What is your favorite Valentine's Day candy?

- M&M's
- Skittles
- Sour Patch Kids

Write your answer on a note card and give it to Grace Hice, 7th grade, Mr.Linz

If I Could Hire Anyone to Be My Teacher

If I could hire anyone in this world to be our teacher it would be Liza Koshy because she is funny, kind, and respectful. She also gives lots of advice to her fans. Liza has lots of confidence which I love because she has been made fun of because of her height. I can relate with her too. Liza is the one teacher who would have fun but at the same time kind. Plus we would have parties all the time. It would be a puny class. That is why I would hire Liza Koshy.

-Chloe Gatling

The Music That INSPIRES ME

I love to listen to Beyonce's music because she is all about girl power and it really helps me push through things that I don't want to do.

-Chloe Gatling

Never Runaway
(A serial story)

It was a normal day for Cora in the small town of Dovelake. She was a normal girl with a normal family. She lived with her father, mother, and older brother. She went to the same school as her friends, until one day, Cora woke up and got ready for school like any other day. Then she noticed something off about her eyes. They were glowing blue and they wouldn't stop. She started to panic then suddenly...

By Grace Hice

WHAT MAKES A GOOD STUDENT?

A good student is someone who listens to the teacher, respects the teacher and does their work.

Good students respect the teacher by listening to them, not playing in class, not eating in class and not talking in class. Good students listen to their teacher by paying attention to them when they are teaching. Good students do their work by listening in class, doing their homework, working hard in class and behaving. A good student is also someone who doesn't do things that get them in trouble. Good students also do things to help the teachers and other students who need help. Good students are also people who can handle doing activities out of school and managing to do their school work too. They also don't misuse technology and take care of the school.

Carly Belland

My playlist determines how I feel after school or whatever I feel in the moment. My favorite genre is pop. Pop has the best beats and it gets me in a happy mood. It inspires me to run, dance, workout, or have fun with friends. Music is really important in my everyday life because I relate to some songs and feel good.

By Samantha Caudill

Shaun White is inspirational to me because I like to skateboard and Shaun White is an amazing snowboarder/skateboarder. I think that Shaun White is a great role model because I skateboard and I can relate to him. Shaun White won 3 gold medals and 1 silver medal. I think he is just a great person and he tries his best and he gets what he has to get done. I look up to Shaun White as a person and as a snowboarder/skateboarder.

Clay Wilder

Different types of music inspire me. When I am running or exercising I like to listen to more upbeat music. When I am mad or sad I like to listen to funny songs. When I am doing homework I like to listen to fast songs that are catchy or something to keep me focused.

Carly Belland

The Merriam Webster definition of peer pressure is "a feeling that one must do the same things as other people of one's own age and social group in order to be liked or respected by them." Everyday you give into peer pressure. Peer pressure can be temptations and wanting to fit in. Peer pressure can make you do terrible things that may ruin your life. If you become addicted to drugs from peer pressure can cause a less likely chance of getting a good job and providing for you family. Peer pressure doesn't just come from people- it can come from anything. Lots of TV shows are giving people ideas that can lead to bad decisions. Many adults give into peer pressure. For example, pretend a mom is at work and her boss tells her to go fire someone for no reason. He keeps pressuring her to do it by saying, "It will make you cool," or "You will be liked by everyone here," and "Do it or else I will fire you." Do you do it? Yes you do. Peer pressure is powerful, but so are you. Don't let other people pressure you to do anything.

- Caitlyn Ellison

If I could hire anyone to be my teacher I would hire Michael Jordan. I would pick Michael because he is a sport star, he is also generous kind and hardworking. He never gives up. An example would be that in high school he got cut from his basketball team. Obviously, he became one of the greatest basketball players of all time. He would be a good leader considering that he led both his college and NBA teams to multiple championships. He inspires me to do my best and succeed in life. He also likes sports just like me. This is why I would hire him to be my teacher.

Garet Jones

My musical inspiration is classical music. It really helps me calm down and relaxes me before a big game. Classical music makes me think of famous people like Coco Chanel, Audrey Hepburn, and others. I love classical music because it is clean and it really helps you fall asleep.

Caitlyn Ellison

If I had a magic wand and could change anything about the school, the number one change would be the time school starts and ends. I believe that school should start at seven fifty-five a.m. and end at two fifty p.m. Some kids (including myself) are late to school because of the distance from their house to school and sometimes traffic.

Last year on Wednesday, one of my teachers got angry because I walked in late during a Character Ed lesson. I wake up at five forty-five a.m. and leave my house at seven in the morning. Since I live thirty minutes away, my arrival at school is at seven thirty a.m. But then, I have to wait in the parking lot and get out of my car at seven forty-five a.m. leaving me with one minute to spare. Even when I come into the lobby, time passes by because there are only two check-ins for arriving late to school and a lot of children are standing in line waiting to check-in. Instead of two check-ins, I think we should have four check-ins.

Samantha Caudill

Mrs.Harris Interview

What is your dream car?

Honda Pilot

What makes a good student?

“ a good student to me is one who has a good attitude who shows interest in learning and goes above and beyond what is expected”

What would you do to change the education in the world?

“Take away the EOGs.”

What do you like to do in your freetime?

Spend time with my family, read , and watch tv

What is your favorite food?

“Mexican food”

By Chloe Gatling

If I had the power to hire anyone as my teacher it would be former president Barack Obama. There are many reasons to choose Mr. Obama. As a past president of the United States he has done and seen so many things. All those things he did over eight years add up to make up a lifetime of cool experiences. I can't imagine all the things that he has been a part of and how hard it was. He could tell me about these many things and so much more.

First, he was the most powerful person in the world when he was president. He could teach me how he was so powerful and how he could make peace with some many different kind of people. He could help students with bullying problems just like he made peace with other leaders. He could listen to the students and understand what they say that matters to them about the school. Being able to listen to many people could help him teach how certain students learn. Since there are so many different kind of students at our school he could help out with diversity because he had to be able to relate to all different kinds of people as President.

Second, he could run the country while taking care of his family as a dad. It's important because he could take care of his students just like he took care of his family. This teaches us how to value family and how to be a good person. He could also inspire us to be well rounded people and students. I like to skateboard and play video games and he could teach me how to be a good student while also doing the things I like to do.

The third reason I believe Mr.Obama would be a good teacher at Cornerstone is because he has traveled to so many places and experienced so many different cultures. He has learned so many things about the world that he could teach us about. Mr.Obama would teach us about world history, countries and their leaders. By learning about different cultures the students can be open to learning about different types of democracy.

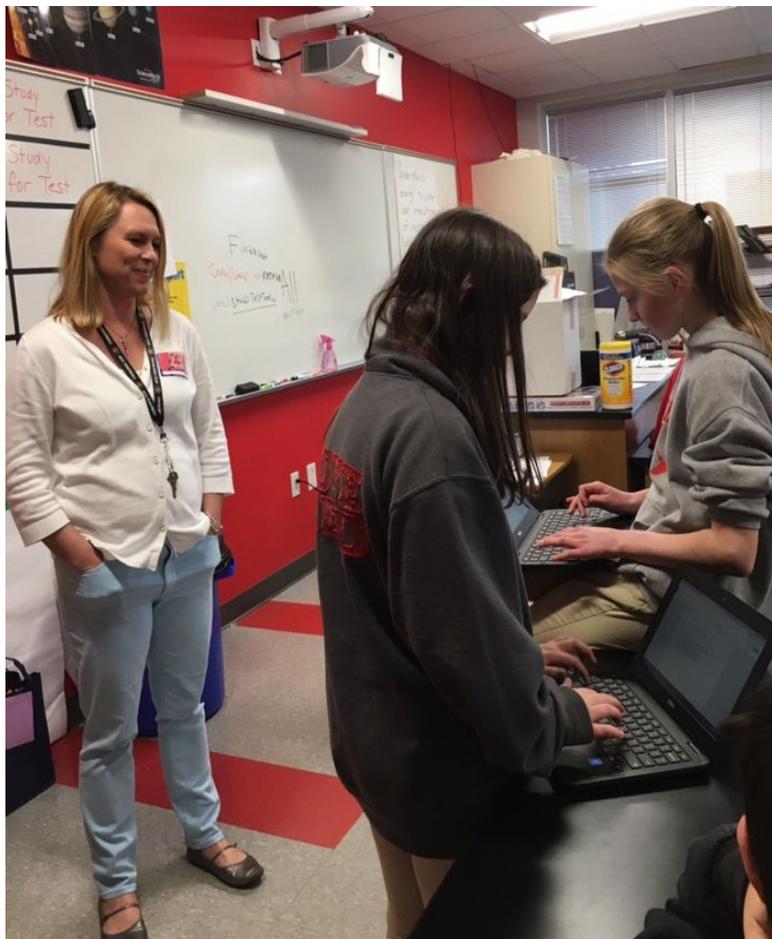

The fourth reason why he would be a good teacher is because he works with so many numbers for math. Everyone has to learn about numbers, and Mr. Obama would know different ways to teach us about math. He would be able to show us how to use the math in many different ways and later in life.

The final reason is that due to the fact that he makes so many speeches it could help students with English. He talks to people in many different ways so he could help understand the students and talk to them in their own way. This could help us to develop our own way of speaking and learning.

In conclusion, I believe that former President Barack Obama could be a good teacher at Cornerstone Charter Academy because of all of his experiences, wisdom, and knowledge.

-Clay Wilder

Mrs. Resler's interview.

Interview with Mrs. Resler

- 1) When you went to college, what was your major?
"Chemical Engineering"

- 2) What makes you want to teach everyday?
"To see kids work hard and learn".

- 3) What do you tell kids who say they hate science ?
"Just hang in there and keep working hard and you might find an area in science that is interesting to you".

- 4) What is your favorite subject to teach?
"Science. I love to teach it".

- 5) What college did you go to?
"Purdue University in Indiana."

By: Caitlyn Ellison and Samantha Caudill

